WOULDN'T STAND IT.

Yesterday afternoon a man from Park City came into the Clift House considerably excited, and inquired if a certain person was stopping there. He explained that the man had "done him dirt," and he was anxious to lick him. Finding that the man had just left the house, 'he rushed out after him, and finding him on Tribune avenue, walked up and announced that he had come all the way from Park City to lick him, and accordingly he started in. In a few minutes he had blackened both the man's eyes, walked all over him and reduced him to a general wreck. When he had finished the job, he stood the man up against the wall of Walker's Bank, and remarked :

"I want you to understand that I consider you the most infamous whelp I ever saw. You dirty little cur, I-"

"Hold on," said the man who had just been kicked, taking off his coat. "I think that after thrashing a man you've no right to abuse him. I can stand a licking, but I won't stand abuse from any living man, no matter how much he weighs. Now I'm going to lick you."

He was as good as his word, and started in with the most business-like air imaginable and knocked his late victor into the gutter. Every time he got up he knocked him down with, "Blast me, I can't stand abuse." When he got all through with the Park City man the crowd thought it was a pile of rags

"Now, look here, my friend," said the last victor, "next time you lick a man let well enough alone. Don't abuse him. You handled yourself well enough while you were licking me, but you overdid the abuse." -Salt Lake Tribune.

A GOLDEN DEED.

It was during the wars that raged from 1652 to 1660, between Frederick III. of Denmark and Charles Gustavus of Sweden, that, after a battle in which the victory had remained with the Danes, a stont burgher of Flensborg, was about to refresh himself, ere retiring to have his wounds dressed, with a draught of beer from a wooden bottle, when an imploring cry from a wounded Swede, lying on the field, unde him turn, and, with the very words of Sidney, " Thy need is greater than mine," he knelt down by the fallen enemy to pour the liquor into his mouth. His requital was a pistol-shot in the shoulder from the trescherous

"Ruscal!" he cried. "I would have befriended you, and you would murder me in return. Now will I punish you. I would have given you the whole bottle: but now you shall have only half."

And drinking off half himself, he gave the rest to the Swede. The king, hearing the story, sent for the burgher and asked him how he came to spare the life of such a "Sire," said the honest burgher, "I could never kill a wounded enemy." "Thou meritest to be a noble," the king said, and created him one immediately, giving him as armorial bearings a wooden bottie pierced with an arrow! The family only lately became extinct in the person of

Another Jewish family has been massacred in the most barbarous manner in Russia. The scene of this fresh atrocity was in the neighborhood of the town of Pronjin, in the government of Grodno. One evening recently some pensants who had occasion to visit the Jewish dwelling beheld a terrible spectacle. In the doorway lay the bodies of two youths, who had apparently been killed with some blunt sustrument, and not for from them lay the horribly mutilated corpse of their mother. The eldest daughter, a girl of twenty, was discovered still breathing, but lying in an unconscious coudition, blood pouring from a number of wounds which had apporently been inflicted with some large knife. In the sleepingroom was found the corpse of the aged father of the family, whose skall had been smashed apparently in the severe ctruggle which he had made to defend his wife and children, and beside the father, in a pool of blood, by a little girl twelve years old. The only living being in the house was the youngest child eight years old, from whose terrified answers to the inquiries addressed to her it appears that a body of peasants entered the house, and, without provocation, deliberately attacked and finally murdered six out of the seven members of the

THE SCOTCH COVENANTER'S OATH.

In the course of a trial at London, recently, one of the witnesses refused to be sworn, and desired to have administered to him the Scotch Covenanter's oath. The Judge confessed that he had never heard of it : but one of the clerks stated that he had in his possession a printed copy which, after some delay, was produced. The witness, holding up his right hand, then repeated the following words: "I do solemnly swear, according to the custom of my country, and the religion I profess, that the evidence I shall give to the court touching the matter in question shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth." His evidence was taken

JACK KETCH'S KITCHEN, NEWGATE.

In its two large caldrons the hangman boiled, in a compound of par, pitch and oil, the limbs of those who were executed and quartered for treason, before fixing them upon the spikes at London Bridge and the city gates. The "kitchen" was situated between the female debtors' ward above and a wretched cell, "Tangier," beneath. In a lower depth still, underground and unlighted, was the Stone Hold. "Built an paved with stone, without beds or any other other sort of protection from the cold, this dreadful hole, accounted the most dark and dismal in the prison, was made the receptacle of such miserable wretches as could not pay the customary foes." The Lower Ward adjoined the Stone Hold, "though in what degree of latitude it was situated," says Ned Ward, with a happy neglect of geometrical precession, "I cannot positively demonstrate, unless it lay 90° beyond the North Pole ; for instead of being dark there but haif the year, it is dark all the year round." The main building, facing the Old Balley, included the master's side, the common side, and the Press Yard. The last named division-which must not be contounded with the press-room, of which I shall speak in its place-was situated behind Phosaix Court. It was devoted to State offenders, and to criminals who could be mucited for their accommodation. So lucrative proved the profits derived from this source, that Pitt, the Governor, who was tried for high treason, but acquitted, on the charge of aiding Poster's escape after the "15," had paid £5,000 for the privilege. of farming the Press Yard. One of the Jacobites who was incarcerated at that period, avers that a greater sum was charged for one room there than would-have paid the fent of the best house in St. James's square or Piccadilly for several years. Some dark and ill-ventilated wards below the ground-level composed the common sidethe ordinary quarters for both malefactors and poor debtors. Two rooms, the Waterman's Hall and My Lady's Hold, were allotted to the female prisoners. From the former; being mor the postern in the gate, they were permitted to beg, like the male felous, and in the same manner, of the passers-by, - London Society.

A MILEMAN WITH A CONSCIENCE.

A young man who has long driven the milk wagon of one of the oldest established dairies of this county, and has supplied milk to its customers for years, recently, early, came to his employer, and to his great surprise, resigned his situation. He had no other place, had no complaint to make, was attached to his employer, liked the business, and all that, but resign he would. It turned out that this was the cause : The day previous, the maid, whose duty it is to fill the used cans of that day, poared them full of water as they stood in the wagon, and left them to stand twenty-four hours to sweeten, as is the rule. Before daybreak the next day the driver brought out his team and hitched up to the wagon containing the caus of water colored by the remains of milk, instead of to a second wagon in which the fresh milk bal been placed for him. Oblivious of his error, he drove over his entire route and served all the customers with milk-colored water. When, later in the day, he discovered his error, he resigned rather than face the battery of the complaints he knew was ready for him. can go up to a cannon's mouth," said he. "and let 'em shoot me in two, but I never want to set eyes again on a where I served that water." His employer enjoys the joke hugely, and was busy all day setting thing to rights, and explaining the error between his gasps for breath from too much laughter. Some of his customers remarked that they had noticed the milk wasn't quite as rich as usual. - Sacramento Record.

GOOD COFFEE.

Everybody wants it, but very few get it, because most people do not know how to select coffee, or it is spoiled in the roasting or making. To obviate these difficulties has been our study. Thurber's package coffees are selected by an expert who understands the art of blending various fiavors. They are roasted in the most perfect manner (it is impossible to roast well in small quantities), then put in pound packages (in the bean, not ground,) bearing our signature as a guarantee of genuineness, and each package contains the Thurber recipe for making good Coffee. We pack and pungent; Thurber's "No. 41," mild and rich. One or the other will suit every taste. They have the three great points, good quality, honest quantity, reasonable price. Ask your Grocer for Thurber's roasted Coffee in pound packages, "No. 34" or "No. 41." Do not be put off with any other kind-your own palate will tell you what is best.

Where persons desire it, we also furnish the "Ideal" Coffee-pot, the simplest, best and cheapest coffee-pot in existence. Grocers who sell our Coffee keep them. Ask for descriptive circular. Respectfully, &c.,
